The Honorable Charles E. Grassley
Ranking Member
Committee on Finance
United States Senate
135 Hart Senate Office Building
Washington, DC 20510-1501

Dear Senator Grassley:

I am pleased to provide you with information on the work of the Heart Rhythm Society and to respond to the specific inquiries presented in your letter dated December 7, 2009.

Arrhythmias are the leading cause of heart-disease related deaths. Sudden cardiac arrest alone claims over 250,000 lives every year, or one life every two minutes.

The Heart Rhythm Society (“HRS”) is the international leader in science, education and advocacy for cardiac arrhythmia professionals and patients, and the primary information resource on heart rhythm disorders. Our mission is to improve the care of patients by promoting research, education and optimal health care policies and standards. Founded in 1979 to address the scarcity of information about the diagnosis and treatment of cardiac arrhythmias, HRS has a membership of over 5,100 heart rhythm professionals in more than 70 countries around the world.

Through research, education and advocacy, the HRS aims to:

- Support excellence in research and education by disseminating findings to the international electrophysiology community and providing the tools to deliver new therapies to patients worldwide.
- Advocate for optimal health care policies and standards by providing leadership on key issues and testifying before decision-making groups in Washington, D.C.
- Help providers deliver the best care by enhancing the patient-provider relationship and informing the public to seek out appropriate and often life-saving care.

Your request specifically focused on five areas which I will address.

1. Please describe the policies for accepting industry funding and whether or not HRS allows companies to place restrictions or provide guidance on how funding will be spent.

At no time does HRS allow companies to place restrictions or provide guidance on how funding will be spent.

HRS classifies industry funding into three categories - commercial, promotional and educational – all of which further the mission of the Society. Commercial funding consists of exhibit fees and product sales, which are treated as business transactions. Promotional funding includes sponsorship opportunities, which are defined as payments made by a company engaged in a trade or business for which the company will receive no substantial benefit other than the use or acknowledgment of the business name, logo, or product lines in connection with the Society’s activities. Educational funding comprises support for continuing medical education (“CME”) and other educational activities.

Every industry funding transaction is evidenced by a letter of agreement (or exhibit space agreement) that clearly defines the purpose and HRS’ independence and control of all content. Specifically, each letter of agreement states that “[HRS] will make all decisions regarding the disposition and disbursement of the funds...” Several Letter of Agreement templates used by HRS are available in Attachment 1.

It is also important to note that HRS is accredited by the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education (“ACCME”) to provide continuing medical education. HRS is also accredited to provide continuing education (“CE”) through the New York State Nurses Association (“NYSNA”). As such, HRS follows all standards for commercial support as mandated by ACCME and NYSNA. These standards require that there be independence, resolution of personal conflicts of interest, appropriate use of commercial support, written agreements outlining terms of support, appropriate management of associated commercial promotion, content and format without commercial bias and disclosures relevant to potential commercial bias.

2. If HRS allows companies to place restrictions on industry funding, then please explain all restrictions and/or guidance for each transfer of value from industry. For each transfer of value with a restriction, please provide the following information: year of transfer, name of company, and restriction placed on funding.

As noted above, industry is not permitted to place restrictions on their contributions or funding to HRS. In the spirit of transparency, we have provided detailed revenue charts, showing all industry funding received as revenue in the applicable reporting year by the Heart Rhythm Society and Heart Rhythm Foundation (Attachment 2). Note that HRS’ fiscal year begins on October 1, so revenues are provided for the period October 1, 2005 to the present. We would be happy to provide any additional financial detail upon request.

3. Please explain what policies, if any that HRS plans to adopt to ensure transparency of funding in order to provide a greater public trust in the independence of your organization.

In 2009, HRS formed a CME and Industry Relations Task Force to review current guidelines, policies and processes and to make recommendations to the HRS Board of Trustees to further enhance operations, strengthen transparency and address any real or perceived conflicts of interest. As a result, all disclosure forms, including those of committee members, presenters and Board of Trustees, will be published and made searchable on HRS' website.

Additionally, the HRS Executive Committee has authorized the publishing of all industry funding on the HRS website at the conclusion of its annual financial audit.

4. Please explain your policies on disclosure of outside income by your top executives and board members.

The Heart Rhythm Society Code of Ethics and Professional Standards (Attachment 3) addresses a range of professional issues including the disclosure of commercial relationships for HRS-related educational activities and publications. Affected individuals are required to disclose their source(s) of financial support from commercial interests including personal income and investments and programmatic support such as funding of a salary position, research grants, fellowship support and in-kind support.

All meetings of HRS' Board, committees, subcommittees and task forces (whether in-person or via conference call) commence with the chair's reading of a disclosure statement reminding members of their obligation to disclose relevant relationships and to recuse themselves from voting on any issue in which they have a conflict of interest (Attachment 4).

Industry members are prohibited from serving as trustees or officers in the Society, or serving on committees.

Certain high-level positions in the Society carry an extraordinary fiduciary obligation to protect the integrity and credibility of the organization. In 2006, HRS began to phase in a policy that prohibited HRS' President and President-Elect from receiving income from commercial entities which have the potential for conflict of interest, during the year(s) in which they hold the position.

5. Please provide the disclosures of outside income filed with your organizations by your top executives and board members.

Attachment 5 contains individual disclosures forms, by year, for top executives and board members.

I hope that this information is helpful in understanding the operations of HRS, and the efforts made by our staff and volunteer leadership to maintain an appropriate level of transparency and working relationships with industry.

HRS staff is available to meet with you or your staff to answer any questions. Please contact Chris Busky, Chief Operating Officer, at (202) 464-3410, cbusky@hrsonline.org, or me at (202) 464-3480, jyoungblood@HRSONline.org.

December 21, 2009

I look forward to hearing from you.

Sincerely,

The Standards for Commercial Support

Standards to Ensure Independence in CME Activities

STANDARD 1: Independence

1.1 A CME provider must ensure that the following decisions were made free of the control of a commercial interest. The ACCME defines a “commercial interest” as any proprietary entity producing health care goods or services, with the exemption of non-profit or government organizations and non-health care related companies.

- (a) Identification of CME needs;
- (b) Determination of educational objectives;
- (c) Selection and presentation of content;
- (d) Selection of all persons and organizations that will be in a position to control the content of the CME;
- (e) Selection of educational methods;
- (f) Evaluation of the activity.

1.2 A commercial interest cannot take the role of non-accredited partner in a joint sponsorship relationship.⌘

STANDARD 2: Resolution of Personal Conflicts of Interest

2.1 The provider must be able to show that everyone who is in a position to control the content of an education activity has disclosed all relevant financial relationships with any commercial interest to the provider. The ACCME defines “relevant” financial relationships” as financial relationships in any amount occurring within the past 12 months that create a conflict of interest.

2.2 An individual who refuses to disclose relevant financial relationships will be disqualified from being a planning committee member, a teacher, or an author of CME, and cannot have control of, or responsibility for, the development, management, presentation or evaluation of the CME activity.

2.3 The provider must have implemented a mechanism to identify and resolve all conflicts of interest prior to the education activity being delivered to learners.⌘

STANDARD 3: Appropriate Use of Commercial Support

3.1 The provider must make all decisions regarding the disposition and disbursement of commercial support.

3.2 A provider cannot be required by a commercial interest to accept advice or services concerning teachers, authors, or participants or other education matters, including content, from a commercial interest as conditions of contributing funds or services.

3.3 All commercial support associated with a CME activity must be given with the full knowledge and approval of the provider.

Written agreement documenting terms of support

3.4 The terms, conditions, and purposes of the commercial support must be documented in a written agreement between the commercial supporter that includes the provider and its educational partner(s). The agreement must include the provider, even if the support is given directly to the provider’s educational partner or a joint sponsor.

3.5 The written agreement must specify the commercial interest that is the source of commercial support.

3.6 Both the commercial supporter and the provider must sign the written agreement between the commercial supporter and the provider.

Expenditures for an individual providing CME

3.7 The provider must have written policies and procedures governing honoraria and reimbursement of out-of-pocket expenses for planners, teachers and authors.

3.8 The provider, the joint sponsor, or designated educational partner must pay directly any teacher or author honoraria or reimbursement of out-of-pocket expenses in compliance with the provider’s written policies and procedures.

3.9 No other payment shall be given to the director of the activity, planning committee members, teachers or authors, joint sponsor, or any others involved with the supported activity.

3.10 If teachers or authors are listed on the agenda as facilitating or conducting a presentation or session, but participate in the remainder of an educational event as a learner, their expenses can be reimbursed and honoraria can be paid for their teacher or author role only.

Expenditures for learners

3.11 Social events or meals at CME activities cannot compete with or take precedence over the educational events.

3.12 The provider may not use commercial support to pay for travel, lodging, honoraria, or personal expenses for non-teacher or non-author participants of a CME activity. The provider may use commercial support to pay for travel, lodging, honoraria, or personal expenses for bona fide employees and volunteers of the provider, joint sponsor or educational partner.

Accountability

3.13 The provider must be able to produce accurate documentation detailing the receipt and expenditure of the commercial support. ☞

STANDARD 4. Appropriate Management of Associated Commercial Promotion

4.1 Arrangements for commercial exhibits or advertisements cannot influence planning or interfere with the presentation, nor can they be a condition of the provision of commercial support for CME activities.

4.2 Product-promotion material or product-specific advertisement of any type is prohibited in or during CME activities. The juxtaposition of editorial and advertising material on the same products or subjects must be avoided. Live (staffed exhibits, presentations) or enduring (printed or electronic advertisements) promotional activities must be kept separate from CME.

- For print, advertisements and promotional materials will not be interleaved within the pages of the CME content. Advertisements and promotional materials may face the first or last pages of printed CME content as long as these materials are not related to the CME content they face and are not paid for by the commercial supporters of the CME activity.
- For computer based, advertisements and promotional materials will not be visible on the screen at the same time as the CME content and not interleaved between computer 'windows' or screens of the CME content.
- For audio and video recording, advertisements and promotional materials will not be included within the CME. There will be no 'commercial breaks.'
- For live, face-to-face CME, advertisements and promotional materials cannot be displayed or distributed in the educational space immediately before, during, or after a CME activity. Providers cannot allow representatives of Commercial Interests to engage in sales or promotional activities while in the space or place of the CME activity.

4.3 Educational materials that are part of a CME activity, such as slides, abstracts and handouts, cannot contain any advertising, trade name or a product-group message.

4.4 Print or electronic information distributed about the non-CME elements of a CME activity that are not directly related to the transfer of education to the learner, such as schedules and content descriptions, may include product-promotion material or product-specific advertisement.

4.5 A provider cannot use a commercial interest as the agent providing a CME activity to learners, e.g., distribution of self-study CME activities or arranging for electronic access to CME activities. ☞

STANDARD 5. Content and Format without Commercial Bias

5.1 The content or format of a CME activity or its related materials must promote improvements or quality in healthcare and not a specific proprietary business interest of a commercial interest.

5.2 Presentations must give a balanced view of therapeutic options. Use of generic names will contribute to this impartiality. If the CME educational material or content includes trade names, where available trade names from several companies should be used, not just trade names from a single company. ☞

STANDARD 6. Disclosures Relevant to Potential Commercial Bias

Relevant financial relationships of those with control over CME content

6.1 An individual must disclose to learners any relevant financial relationship(s), to include the following information:

- The name of the individual;
- The name of the commercial interest(s);
- The nature of the relationship the person has with each commercial interest.

6.2 For an individual with no relevant financial relationship(s) the learners must be informed that no relevant financial relationship(s) exist.

Commercial support for the CME activity.

6.3 The source of all support from commercial interests must be disclosed to learners. When commercial support is 'in-kind' the nature of the support must be disclosed to learners.

6.4 'Disclosure' must never include the use of a trade name or a product-group message.

Timing of disclosure

6.5 A provider must disclose the above information to learners prior to the beginning of the educational activity. ☞

HEART RHYTHM SOCIETY CODE OF ETHICS AND PROFESSIONAL STANDARDS

OVERVIEW

The Heart Rhythm Society (HRS) recognizes that its members have ethical obligations to their patients, the profession and each other, as well as to the community and world at large. In their efforts to fulfill the mission of the Society, members, trustees, officers and staff must adhere to ethical standards and comply with applicable laws.

This document, referred to collectively as the “Heart Rhythm Society’s Ethics Policy” consists of two parts: i) the Code of Ethics sets standards and provides guidance for Members acting on behalf of the Society, and ii) the Code of Professional Standards sets standards and provides guidance to members in their clinical or laboratory practice, or other institutional environment. Adherence to the Society’s Ethics Policy is a condition of HRS membership.

CODE OF ETHICS

CONDUCT OF STAFF AND VOLUNTEERS

It is the policy of the Heart Rhythm Society to uphold the highest ethical values and to encourage professional and principled behavior by its staff and volunteers. It is the role of the Society to educate staff, officers, trustees, volunteers, and other members on these issues, actively recognize potential problems and develop proactive policies for individuals and the organization. Each trustee, committee member, officer and staff member shall receive a copy of the Society’s ethics policy, which they shall be required to read and acknowledge. Conflict of interest disclosure statements shall be filed annually by volunteers and senior staff.

In general, staff and volunteers shall:

- Work to ensure the attainment of the Society’s mission and objectives.
- Act only within the scope of authority as specified in the bylaws and written policies of the Society.
- Make only commitments they are authorized to make or that the Society can keep without violating established practices and policies.
- Always act in accordance with policies.
- Diligently carry out agreed-upon assignments and tasks.

- Protect the confidentiality of the Society's information, including intellectual property, business plans, personnel information, member lists and identity of individual donors.
- Make statements on organizational positions only if the Society has taken an official position and they are authorized to speak for the organization.
- Exercise care in lobbying and political activities to avoid jeopardizing the Society's tax exempt status or otherwise harming the reputation of the Society.
- Report misconduct to appropriate individuals.

ORGANIZATIONAL POLICIES

The Society shall articulate its core values in a written code of conduct, and maintain policies and procedures that protect the organization's reputation and integrity, ensure regulatory and legal compliance, and promote the proper use of authority and decision making. These policies include but are not limited to the following areas:

Legal/Regulatory

- Compliance with federal and state laws and regulations governing financial reporting, employment and compensation, privacy, and the fiduciary duties of trustees and officers.
- Compliance with obligations and restrictions governing nonprofit organizations, including lobbying, political activities, taxes, solicitations and compensation.
- Protecting the integrity of the Society's name, logo, assets and reputation for authorized uses and not for personal gain.

Governance

- Board operating procedures that support Board policy and ensure professional conduct at Board and other leadership meetings.
- Decision making authority that defines roles, responsibilities and fiduciary duties.
- Nominations and election processes to ensure qualified candidates.
- Internal audit to identify and address noncompliance with policies and procedures.
- Process to identify violations which assures anonymity and no retaliation against volunteers or staff.

Finances

- Expenditures/use of resources.
- Purchasing and vendor selection.
- Relationships with industry.
- Internal and external controls and audits.
- Compliance with key provisions of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act, specifically:
 - Establishment of an audit committee with the independence and authority to oversee financial reporting and the audit process.
 - Independent and financially literate audit committee members.
 - Written statements from the Chief Executive Officer and Chief Financial Officer certifying the fair presentation of financial information.

Personnel

- Employment practices and policies, including
 - Hiring/firing/discipline to protect individual's and organization's rights
 - Grievance process.
 - Oversight of compensation practices.

SPOKESPERSON CONDUCT

The Society shall designate an official spokesperson to give public testimony and/or provide information to the media with regard to specific issues, programs or policy statements. Spokespersons shall have expertise in area being addressed and, whenever possible, no actual or perceived conflict of interest that could influence their opinions or the integrity of the Society's positions. If a person without conflict of interest cannot be identified, such conflicts of interest must be clearly and fully disclosed as a preamble to any oral or written public statement.

Media Representatives

When working with the media, Members shall clearly state whether they are acting as a spokesperson for the organization. If so, they should be certain they are accurately expressing the position of the Society; and if not, they should clearly state that their opinion is personal or professional, not organizational.

Public Testimony

The Society shall select Members to give public testimony. It is the responsibility of the Members acting in this capacity to be familiar with the Society's position on which they are being asked to testify.

Members giving public testimony who have not been designated as official spokespersons by the Society shall clearly state that they are expressing their individual personal or professional opinion. A formal statement may be required by the individual to prevent personal opinion from being construed as the Society's opinion or position. For officers, trustees or committee chairs, where information about their leadership role in the Society is used to demonstrate their professional qualifications, a formal statement is especially important.

DISCLOSURE OF COMMERCIAL RELATIONSHIPS

Disclosure of financial relationships with commercial interests shall be mandatory for HRS-related educational activities and publications, including original articles, policy statements, editorials, textbooks and textbook chapters, and guidelines. The Society shall support disclosure policies that are consistent with other cardiology organizations, including, when appropriate, the ACC, AHA, subspecialty societies and international organizations, including the development of a secure, uniform database for disclosure information that is updated annually. The Society shall proactively educate Members and promote compliance with industry standards, including but not limited to the following:

- *AMA Gifts to Physicians from Industry.*¹
- *ACCME Standards for Commercial Support.*²
- *ACGME Principles to Guide the Relationship between Graduate Medical Education and Industry.*³

Content of Educational Activities and Publications

Educational content shall promote health care, and not a specific proprietary business interest. The content shall offer a balanced view, and should use generic names or trade names from multiple companies whenever possible. Live case demonstrations shall not be used to promote a product and shall provide a proper clinical perspective. The educational content of the program shall not be directed or influenced by the provision of financial support.

Educational Activities Requiring Disclosure

The Society's disclosure policy applies to the organization as a whole, and to all educational activities, including satellite symposia not sponsored or endorsed by the Society, and live case demonstrations.

Individuals Affected by Educational Disclosure Requirements

Individuals affected by the Society's disclosure policy include course directors, planners, reviewers, moderators, speakers, faculty; authors of book chapters and journal editors; and individuals who influence the content of other educational products, services and publications, such as meeting proceedings and website content. [See also disclosure requirements for staff and volunteers, pp. 9-10.]

Types of Financial Support Requiring Disclosure

Affected individuals shall disclose the source(s) of their financial support from commercial interests, which are defined as entities with a financial interest in heart rhythm management. Entities such as ABIM, ACC and AHA are not considered to be "commercial interests" and support from such entities is excluded from the Society's disclosure requirements. Sources of support include a) personal income and investments, and b) programmatic support, as follows:

Personal income/investments

- Consulting fees, honoraria, gifts, in-kind compensation for consulting, lecturing, travel, advisory board service, legal testimony or consultation.
- Equity interests, including stock options but excluding mutual funds.
- Royalty income derived from patents or publications sponsored by a commercial interest.
- Non-royalty payments or entitlements that are not directly related, such as travel expenses to a meeting for a spouse.
- Service as an officer, director or in another fiduciary role for a "financially interested company," whether remunerated or not.
- Sole ownership, partnership or principal of an enterprise.

Programmatic Support

- Research grants.
- Fellowship support.
- Funding of a salary or position (full or part time).
- Reimbursement for clinical studies, registries or post-market databases.

- In-kind support.
- Other financial support not falling into any other category.

Individuals shall calculate the annual cumulative amount of support received from each commercial source, and disclose the results for each source, as follows:

- None.
- Modest (less than or equal to $10,000).
- Significant (greater than $10,000).

Speakers' Requirements

It is the policy of the Heart Rhythm Society that all speakers shall fully disclose their relevant financial relationships to learners before, or as an integral part of, the educational activity. Information to be disclosed includes the name of the organization(s) and the type(s) and level(s) of support. Names of commercial interests shall be printed in the syllabus, presented visually on a slide or disclosed verbally. If a speaker makes a verbal disclosure of the required information, the CME coordinator must attest in writing that verbal disclosure was made.

Written Requirements

Written disclosure information shall be provided in a syllabus or on a slide, and shall include the following information:

- Personal income/investments – level and name of entity.
- Royalty/stock options – yes/no and name of commercial entity.
- Programmatic support – level and name of entity.
- Cumulative/total support – level and name of entity.

The syllabus or slide shall also disclose relationships of the program's planners and reviewers.

Noncompliance

The moderator shall request disclosure information at the presentation if it has been not previously provided. Willful omission or incomplete information shall be cause for prohibiting future participation by individual in the Society's activities. [See "Oversight" below.]

Authors of Heart Rhythm Society Editorials and Original Articles

Editors of Society publications shall obtain disclosure information when manuscripts are submitted and prior to inviting editorial submissions. Editors shall seek additional information regarding potential conflicts of interest as needed. Information to be disclosed shall include the individual name(s), the company name(s), nature of the individual's contract with the company (e.g. data handling, statistics, editing/censorship of results, ability to report adverse findings), and the level of financial support.

Writing Groups

Members of the Society's writing groups of organizational statements and guidelines have a special obligation of full disclosure due to the impact on organizational integrity of actual or perceived conflicts of interest.

Detailed disclosure information shall be provided and updated throughout the duration of the writing group's activities. Individuals shall make a full disclosure (written or verbal) at the initial meeting of the writing group, and update their disclosure information at all subsequent meetings.

Individuals with conflicts may provide information during discussions but must be excused from the room during voting on guideline recommendations.

Disclosure information shall be published with the final document. Members shall be prohibited from sharing information with companies until posting of the final document on the Society's website.

Oversight

The Society shall fully disclose its policies and sanctions to all participants in educational activities, products and services, and publications.

The Society shall maintain an oversight committee that is responsible for a) obtaining and randomly auditing disclosures; b) providing and communicating a process for reporting potential violations; c) evaluating complaints; d) levying and enforcing sanctions; and e) providing a mechanism for the appeal of decisions.

Refusal to make adequate disclosure shall prohibit an individual's participation in all Society activities. Violations may also be reported to an individual's academic institution or organization. The Society shall maintain a process for disqualifying individuals who have a conflict that cannot be adequately dispelled with disclosure.

CONFLICT OF INTEREST

The Society shall maintain and regularly review well-defined policies regarding relationships that may represent potential or perceived conflicts of interest. Each trustee, officer and committee member of the Society shall receive and be required to read, understand and acknowledge the Society's Conflict of Interest Policy. The Society shall actively monitor sources of potential conflicts and remedies taken (such as disclosure, recusal and nonvoting), and provide procedures for dealing with violations.

Members are obligated to identify, disclose and resolve potential and actual conflicts of interests promptly as they may arise in their professional practice and service to the Society. Each trustee, officer and committee member shall annually complete and submit to the Society a disclosure form listing all interests that such person has which do, or potentially could, represent a conflict of interest with the Society. The Ethics Committee shall have responsibility to review disclosure statements submitted by trustees, officers and committee chairs of the Society on an annual basis.

The Ethics Committee shall review all circumstances which come to its attention (whether through independent investigation or as reported by others), that it believes may present an actual, potential or perceived conflict of interest. In considering such circumstances, the Ethics Committee shall make a determination regarding whether a conflict of interest exists, or could be perceived to exist, and if so whether there are actions, policies or processes that can be implemented to resolve, mitigate or manage the conflict in a manner deemed acceptable to the Ethics Committee. If a conflict cannot be adequately resolved, mitigated or managed, then the Ethics Committee, or the Board of Trustees (upon recommendation from the Ethics Committee), may require the person to limit or curtail certain activities, either within the Society or outside of it, in order to eliminate or remedy the conflict.

The determinations of the Ethics Committee, and any actions, policies or processes that are adopted to resolve, mitigate or manage a conflict of interest shall be the subject of a written report by the Ethics Committee. As deemed appropriate or necessary, such report may be prepared with assistance from or reviewed by legal counsel.

Relationships that Carry the Potential for Conflict of Interest

- Industry (e.g. grants, donations, sponsorships, promotions, research funding, consulting and advisory boards).
- Leadership positions in other professional societies could represent either a conflict of interest or a conflict of commitment.
- Institutional obligations.
- Family relationships with businesses, organizations or individuals with competing or overlapping interests.
- Ownership of business interests or intellectual property that could represent a conflict of interest.
- Investment authority or decision making responsibility for competing organizations or entities.

Activities That Carry the Potential for Conflict of Interest

- Prospect of personal or family financial/commercial gain in situations where the Society is involved or has an interest.
- Authority for decisions (e.g. fiscal responsibilities, purchasing decisions, co-ventures, policy statements and guidelines).
- Unfair advantage for self, family and colleagues such as non-merit based judgment of performance or skills.
- Accepting gifts from vendors.
- Relationships that result in unfair treatment of employees or volunteers.
- Use of the Society's confidential or proprietary information for personal gain or purposes that are not in the organization's best interests.
- Remunerative relationships (such as publishers, exhibitors and high-level supporters).
- Ownership of, or control over, intellectual property or products in which the Society has an interest.
- Opportunity for personal gain or activities in conflict with the Society's best interests.
- Demands of outside activities that distract from optimal job performance by staff members.
- Offers of research or charitable funding with actual, apparent or potential restrictions on the use of funds that either benefit the donor inappropriately or are not in the best interest of the Society.

Situations to be Avoided

- Undue influence, favoritism or inappropriate recognition of corporate donors.
- Soliciting or directing donations to areas of personal gain.
- Constraints on publication of research results.
- Premature release of scientific or guideline statements.
- Activities that violate ACCME⁴ or AdvaMed⁵ guidelines.
- Unrealistic or unethical expectations of gain.
- Using Society funds for personal or unauthorized purposes.

The Society recognizes that there may be circumstances in which there is benefit to the Society for entering into a financial or commercial relationship with a trustee, committee chair or other related party, but only after the relationship and benefit to the related party have been disclosed, the benefits to the Society evaluated and other options considered.

Special Requirements for High-Level Positions

Certain high-level positions in the Society, including trustees (particularly Executive Committee members and committee chairs) and officers (particularly the President, President-Elect and other 'presidential track' officers), carry an extraordinary fiduciary obligation to protect the integrity and credibility of the organization. Individuals who serve in such positions are special stewards of the Society's reputation and assets. They are expected to demonstrate the highest standard of professional conduct, both in their service to the Society and their personal and professional activities, which can reflect on the Society's credibility either positively or negatively.

Persons who hold such high level positions must avoid both actual and perceived conflicts that could harm the Society's image or undermine the scientific credibility of its statements, guidelines, public testimony or general reputation as an ethical organization. For this reason, it is the policy of the Society to require disclosure of all conflicts that are relevant to the topic under consideration, and, when necessary, recusal from voting, of certain volunteers, as follows:

- All members of the Board of Trustees (including officers), committees, subcommittees and task forces shall complete a written disclosure statement detailing their relevant commercial, professional and institutional relationships. To the extent applicable, the statement shall disclose whether and to what extent the person is involved in the leadership of another organization, including other medical professional societies. Information from disclosure statements shall be maintained by HRS staff and updated annually, or more often as needed.
- All meetings of HRS's Board, committees, subcommittees and task forces (whether in-person or via conference call) shall commence with the chair's reading of a disclosure statement reminding members of their obligation to disclose relevant relationships and recuse themselves from voting on any issue in which they have a conflict of interest.
- Industry members shall be prohibited from serving as trustees or officers in the Society, or serving on committees. Industry members may serve on task forces, if their expertise is germane to the work of the task force.

Due to the potential perception of conflicts of interest, the Society's leadership who simultaneously serve in key positions of other organizations, particularly other medical professional societies, should fully disclose the nature of these relationships as well as any relationships with Industry. For these purposes, leadership positions include the President, President-Elect, and other officer positions in the 'presidential track', as well membership on the Executive Committee of the Board of Trustees and committee chairs.

While the Society recognizes that the type of person it wants to serve in such positions is likely to be interested in and similarly sought after by other organizations, there is a significant concern about both subject matter and time commitment conflicts. For these reasons, the Nominations Subcommittee is cautioned to take such circumstances into consideration, review the timing of participation in leadership activities among multiple organizations and be mindful of potential nominee's involvement in other organizations when formulating its nomination selections on behalf of the Society. Dual leadership circumstances, as described above, shall be reported by the Nominations Subcommittee to the Ethics Committee.

Restrictions on President and, President-Elect

The Society's President and President-Elect shall be prohibited from receiving income from commercial entities which have the potential for conflict of interest, during the year(s) in which they hold the position.

The Society draws a distinction between active and passive income as detailed below. Active income is disallowed under any and all circumstances. Activities generating passive income may, at the affected individual's discretion, be a) divested entirely or b) held in a custodial (or "blind") trust managed by a disinterested third party. In the event a custodial trust is established, the affected individual shall be prohibited from seeking or receiving information about the performance of assets in the trust during his or her tenure in the affected position.

All consulting relationships, with remuneration, are disallowed.

Active income

Sources of active income from financially interested companies which are prohibited include the following:

- Fees for consulting, lecturing, or serving on advisory boards.
- Fees for giving legal testimony or consulting on legal cases.
- Honoraria. (See additional provisions regarding honoraria below.)
- Gifts.
- In-kind compensation for consulting.
- Non-royalty payments or entitlements that are not directly related, such as travel expenses to a meeting for a spouse.
- Remunerated service as an officer, director or other fiduciary role in a financially interested enterprise.

The President and President-Elect may not defer active income for the purpose of avoiding this requirement.

Active income cannot be directed to any institution or organization.

Industry Boards

Due to the potential perception of conflicts of interest, the President and President-Elect should not serve on business-related medical industry Boards (Boards of Directors, Governance Committees, Finance Committees, etc.), but may, with full disclosure and no financial gain, serve on industry medical advisory Boards.

Passive income

Sources of passive income from financially interested enterprises which are prohibited or required to be held by a disinterested custodian include the following:

- Equity interests, including stock in a financially interested enterprise, but excluding mutual funds that may hold such stock in its portfolio.
- Sole ownership, partnership or principal of a financially interested enterprise.

Programmatic and Other Support

The Society recognizes that other forms of programmatic and non-income support may be provided by financially interested enterprises for the purposes of training, research and other academic activities that promote excellence in patient care and the well-being of the community and world at large. Such support recognizes the professional expertise of recipients and may ante- or post-date the years in which an affected individual holds the office of President or President-Elect.

Affected individuals shall not be required to divest themselves of such support but shall disclose the sources and levels of all programmatic support from financially interested enterprises, including the following:

- Research grants.
- Fellowship support.
- Funding of a program salary or position (full or part time).
- Reimbursement for clinical studies, registries or post-market databases.
- In-kind support.
- Non-remunerated service as an officer, director or other fiduciary role in a financially interested enterprise.

Honoraria and Participation in Industry Sponsored Symposia

The President and President-Elect may chair, speak or otherwise participate in industry sponsored events or symposia, provided that it is publicly and conspicuously disclosed that he or she is participating in his or her individual capacity and not as a representative of the Society.

As described above, the President or President-Elect may not accept honoraria for chairing, speaking at or participating in any way in symposia or other event sponsored by industry. For these purposes, directing the sponsoring entity to pay the honoraria amounts to the Society or other not-for-profit organizations, shall likewise be prohibited.

The President and President-Elect may receive honoraria for their participation in symposia, programs and other events that are not sponsored by industry. Such permitted symposia, programs and other events would include those sponsored by academic institutions, hospitals, healthcare organizations and other tax exempt entities.

With full disclosure, the President and President-Elect may participate as a speaker at a symposium held in conjunction with the HRS Scientific Sessions, but may not serve as a chair of these programs. This restriction should be made clear to the sponsors of these programs.

Restrictions on Journal Editor

The editor-in-chief shall be bound by the Society's Disclosure and Conflict of Interest policies, and must disclose all relationships with financially interested companies. In addition, the editor-in-chief shall not receive remuneration from competing print publications or products. He or she shall minimize editorial responsibilities for other publications, and shall not serve on advisory boards for competing organizations. The policies regarding income and consulting relationships as applied to the President and President-Elect of the Society as described above, shall apply equally to the editor-in-chief.

CODE OF PROFESSIONAL STANDARDS

CLINICAL CARE

Patient welfare must be paramount in the practice of medicine and under no circumstances shall a member of the Society place his or her self-interest above the welfare of the patient. Members shall not practice medicine beyond the scope of their training, experience and license. Members shall uphold standards of professionalism and be honest in all professional interactions with patients and other health care providers.

Members shall support access to medical care for all people and shall not discriminate on the basis of gender, race, color, national origin, sexual orientation or any other basis that would constitute illegal discrimination.

Members who are experiencing substance abuse or physical or emotional/psychological impairment should seek the appropriate assistance and limit their activities to ensure that the impairment does not affect the quality of care provided.

Members are obligated to report patient abuse, neglect or harassment to the responsible authorities. Members shall report colleagues who demonstrate illegal or unethical conduct or deficient competence to the appropriate legal, regulatory or peer-based entity. Members shall cooperate in the legal, regulatory or peer-review process in connection with alleged unethical or illegal conduct of any member, including himself or herself, and accept the profession's discipline.

Safeguards

The Society's mission is to improve the care of patients by promoting research, education and optimal healthcare policies and standards. The Society champions the highest standards of care and supports the use of safeguard mechanisms, including:

- Use of evidence based guidelines such as practice guidelines and clinical competence statements developed by the Society, ACC, AHA and cardiology subspecialty societies, as well as systems-based approaches such as ACC's Guidelines Applied in Practice (GAP) program and AHA's Get With the GuidelinesSM.
- Procedural training and credentialing of physicians, technicians and other healthcare providers by ACC, AHA, ABIM, and subspecialty societies.
- Procedural oversight of laboratories by physician laboratory directors to monitor self referral, patient referral indicators, procedural quality and outcomes.
- Accreditation and credentialing of diagnostic laboratories.
- Clinical case conferences to broaden input into patient management decisions, and which may include invasive and non-invasive cardiologists, primary care physicians, independent cardiovascular surgeons and cardiac care associates).
- Participation in laboratory databases, such as the ACC/HRS ICD Registry⁶, and the use of diagnostic-yield findings.
- Review of medical care by experts outside the geographic region when review is deemed necessary and local review is impractical.

Advertising

The Society recognizes that direct-to-consumer advertising is professionally accepted and legal, and encourages advertising that a) uses content that is appropriate and not misleading, and b) clearly discloses any commercial relationships. The Society also recognizes that diagnostic tests are not currently regulated, and that additional oversight by the appropriate regulatory agencies is needed. The Society supports efforts by professional societies, including ACC, AHA and the subspecialty societies, to develop guidelines for advertising and diagnostic tests.

SCIENTIFIC RESEARCH

The Society promotes the responsible conduct of research and encourages compliance with ethical standards and government regulations governing research. Members of the Society who are involved in research activities are expected to protect the integrity of their scientific data and meet accepted ethical standards for conducting research and publishing scientific data. The Society's policy applies to all Members, including physicians, scientists, students, staff and postdoctoral fellows, whether performing research funded by the Heart Rhythm Society or by other organizations.

Scientific Misconduct

Members involved in research activities shall comply with guidelines dealing with scientific misconduct established by the government's Office of Research Integrity.⁷ Scientific misconduct or misconduct in science is defined as "fabrication, falsification, plagiarism, or other practices that seriously deviate from those that are commonly accepted within the scientific community for proposing, conducting, or reporting research. It does not include honest error or honest differences in interpretations or judgments of data."⁸

Vertebrate Animal Research

The Society supports research involving vertebrate animals and encourages the humane treatment of laboratory animals. Members of the Society are expected to adhere to accepted standards and governmental regulations on the humane care and use of laboratory animals,^{9,10,11} and to comply with the requirements of their institutions concerning animals used in research. In cases where research by a Member or HRS postdoctoral fellow is supported by the Society, failure to adhere to this policy may mean the suspension of HRS funding.

Human Subject Research

The Society encourages members to develop new knowledge and participate in clinical research. Members conducting clinical research are expected to be transparent in all dealings with clinical trial subjects, and to work to enroll patients of underrepresented groups.

The Society recognizes that, as investigators, members have two primary obligations: a) to conduct the study according to protocol, and b) to comply with legal and ethical responsibilities toward a subject who has given consent. Therefore, Members must be familiar with both the experimental therapy to be tested and the guiding principles of human subject research.

It is the position of the Society that an investigator's obligation to a sponsor is superseded by his or her obligation to act on behalf of the subject independently from the sponsor, and that rules of engagement are needed to maintain appropriate independence while participating in a partnership with industry

Informed Consent

Members conducting research with human subjects are expected to obtain informed consent, and to use, where possible, a neutral third party to observe the informed consent process. In addition:

- Members conducting pediatric research shall adhere to federal regulations governing such research. Members have a special obligation to strive for informed consent, which is usually a combination of parental permission and the child's assent, especially when influencing factors (such as payment for participation) are present.
- Members conducting research with adolescents and young adults shall use the adult protocol for informed consent.
- Members conducting research in emergency and/or life-threatening situations shall comply with FDA regulations governing such conditions.

Disclosure

Members of the Society who conduct research with human subjects shall:

- Disclose their role in the trial to the subject.
- Disclose relevant financial relationships to trial subjects.
- Comply with the detailed disclosure requirements of their Institutional Review Board.

Data Monitoring, Analysis and Publication

Members of the Society who conduct research with human subjects shall:

- Have a plan for monitoring data collection and subject safety in randomized trials and all other types of research.
- Avoid a primary role in data analysis in studies in which they have a major personal financial interest.
- Make results public regardless of outcome, including having a contractual arrangement for publication in place at outset of the trial to avoid the potential for undue delay or obstruction by the sponsor.

While the preferred mechanism is publication in a peer-reviewed journal, posting on public website or other public access is allowed. In multicenter trials, the study's steering/executive committee should have a formal mechanism to oversee publication established by contract prior to start of study to prevent control of the process by the sponsor, investigator or "renegade" publication.

EXPERT WITNESS TESTIMONY

Expert witness testimony is considered the practice of medicine and should be provided in an objective manner using medical knowledge to form expert medical opinions that are subject to peer review. The Society believes it is appropriate for Members to act as expert witnesses in their area of expertise, including litigation in class action or patent cases involving pharmaceutical and medical device industries.

Malpractice Litigation

Before agreeing to serve as an expert witness, Members should assess the merits of the case and give an honest opinion to the requesting attorney. Members should understand that their role is to assist the judge and jury to understand the medical facts of the case. Members should be willing to testify for either the plaintiff or defendant depending on the merits of the case.

Members should give medical testimony that is clearly stated, concise and understandable. They should be fair, thorough and objective, and not exclude any relevant information with a bearing on the case. Members should be willing to submit transcripts of prior and current depositions and courtroom testimony for peer review.

Members may receive reasonable compensation that is commensurate with the time and effort expended.

Qualifications of Expert Witnesses

Witnesses should have expertise in the relevant area, e.g.

- For technical details of an electrophysiological or device implantation nature, the witness should be a board certified practicing specialist in the relevant area.
- For aspects of diagnosis and general management of patients with cardiovascular disease, the witness should be a cardiologist with expertise in the relevant area.

In addition, the Member should have a current, valid and unrestricted license in his or her area of professional practice, and be Board certified by ABIM or ABOIM in cardiovascular disease, or equivalent certification in pediatric cardiology or cardiovascular surgery.

The Member should be actively and primarily engaged in the practice of the specialty or subspecialty under consideration, including electrophysiology and interventional cardiology. The Member should also be knowledgeable of, and qualified, in the area of testimony, and familiar with commonly accepted clinical practice standards.

Compensation for expert testimony should be reasonable and commensurate with the time and effort expended. An expert witness shall not accept compensation that is contingent upon the outcome of litigation, and an expert witness shall not testify solely for financial gain because of the potential for such motivation to influence the expert's testimony.

STATEMENT TO BE READ BY CHAIRPERSON AT THE BEGINNING OF EVERY HEART RHYTHM SOCIETY COMMITTEE/TASK FORCE MEETING

“Heart Rhythm Society maintains an official policy on relationships of members with industry or other organizations with respect to our participation in all meetings of Heart Rhythm Society committees and task forces. I have reviewed your annual Disclosure Forms. Throughout the year, at each committee meeting, it is my duty to remind you that if you have a relationship as defined in the Heart Rhythm Society Disclosure-of-Relationship Policy, and this committee takes under consideration today a matter related to that relationship, you must not vote on that issue. If you would like to participate in the discussion, you must disclose the relationship to the committee prior to doing so.

Each trustee, committee member, officer and staff member receives a copy of the Society's ethics policy, which they are required to read and acknowledge in writing. Conflict of interest disclosure statements are filed annually by volunteers and senior staff, and are subject to random auditing by the Ethics Oversight Committee.

DISCLOSURE-OF-RELATIONSHIP FORM
2009-2010

The Heart Rhythm Society and the Heart Rhythm Foundation are committed to upholding the highest ethical values and to encourage professional and principled behavior by its staff and volunteers. It is the role of the Society to educate staff, officers, trustees, volunteers, and other members on these issues, actively recognize potential problems and develop proactive policies for individuals and the organization. Each trustee, committee member, officer and staff member receives a copy of the Society's ethics policy, which they are required to read and acknowledge in writing. Conflict of interest disclosure statements are filed annually by volunteers and senior staff, and are subject to random auditing by the Ethics Oversight Committee.
